Course Description:

This course explores the intersections between the representation of gender and sexuality in political media, and the politics of freedom, rights and duties in the 20th and 21st centuries. The first aim of the course is to introduce students to the political history of women’s struggle, acquainting them with the major critiques that fueled developments in feminist political debate (e.g. the first, second and third waves of feminism, as well as the diverse ‘schools’ of feminist thought like liberal, radical, marxist, postmodernist, postcolonial, global, critical race, and muslim feminisms). The second aim of the course is to focus on applying political theory to practice by analyzing how representations of gender and sexual identity play a role in everyday political life, as well as in global politics. Topics will include:

- The politics of sexual difference
- Gender inequality and the public/private divide
- Democracy, citizenship and gender representations
- Domination, power and sexual discrimination
- Representations of gender in leadership positions
- Politics of gender in global contexts

The course combines lectures, readings, and class-based discussions. Each week you will be required to attend the lecture and keep up with the required readings. The course will also feature visual/filmic materials.

Course Objectives:

- To demonstrate knowledge of major western and some non-western feminist political theories, ideologies and approaches
• To explore and understand how the concepts of sex, gender, race and class relate to political theory and political practices both historically and in current affairs
• To demonstrate ability to use the ideas of political theorists to address contemporary social issues such as family, work, prostitution, and pornography.
• Use feminist and other gender-related approaches to evaluate arguments, interpretations, and opinions about power relationships within government, politics and society

Evaluation:

Class Participation (this is not an attendance mark; you will be evaluated on your in-class discussion and participation!) = 10%

Critical Reflection (3-4 page mini-essay on a pre-assigned question) = 20%; due January 30, 2018 at the beginning of class;

Research Paper Outline = 10% Due February 27, 2018 at the beginning of class.

Research Paper = 25%; Due March 6, 2018 no later than 5pm by electronic upload.

Take Home Final Exam = 35%; Distributed in class March 27, 2018; Due April 3 at the beginning of class.

Detailed description of assignments are available in the ‘Appendices’ at the back of the course outline.

Assignment Deadlines: Please consider these deadlines ‘sacred’! Late essay submissions will be subject to a penalty deduction of 5% a day (from the due date until the day that the assignment is received by the instructor, including weekends and holidays). This may appear to be an unnecessarily harsh penalty, but the rationale is to promote the timely submission of work, which is the cornerstone of any future career that you may have. Also, the assignment deadline dates have been carefully chosen so that ample time is given to evaluating your work and suggesting improvements to work submitted.

Submission Policy: Except where indicated, all assignments must be printed and submitted in-class on the deadline (email submissions will not be accepted unless prior permission has been given by the professor). It is the student’s responsibility to ensure that his/her assignment has been officially received (for example, if you slip your paper under my door without notifying me, I am not responsible for a ‘lost’ paper and this cannot be used as a grounds for appeal).
Submission Instructions for Electronically uploaded assignments (e.g. take-home exam): some assignments must be submitted electronically through the OWL course website. Go to the course website and click on the ‘Assignments’ link in Menubar (left side of screen). Go to the relevant assignment link (e.g. ‘take-home exam’) to upload your electronic copy. Please SUBMIT EITHER AS A WORD OR PDF DOCUMENT ONLY (OWL DOES NOT ACCEPT PAGES OR ANY OTHER FORMAT).

Communication Policy: I encourage you to visit me during my weekly office hours to introduce yourself, ask questions, or seek clarifications about the readings. Otherwise you can also communicate with me through email (at my uwo email address; please allow up to two days for responses). You can always leave me a voice message on my campus telephone (extension 81161).

Academic Dishonesty Policy: “Scholastic offences are taken seriously and students are directed to read the appropriate policy, specifically, the definition of what constitutes a Scholastic Offence, at the following Web site: http://www.uwo.ca/univsec/handbook/appeals/choloff.pdf.” The University of Western Ontario uses software for plagiarism checking. Students may be required to submit their written work in electronic format for plagiarism checking. (UWO Senate 2002-03).”

2. CRITICAL REFLECTIONS = 20%

-DUE JAN. 30/IN CLASS; AT THE BEGINNING OF CLASS

Question: Does Institutional Representation Solve the Problem of Gender Inequality?

Objectives:

- To stimulate your interest in reading the weekly assigned course materials.
- To help you direct and better orient your weekly reading of course materials.
- To enable you to critically respond to class materials in writing
- To give you oral discussion materials to enhance your in-class participation.

Instructions:

This exercise evaluates your familiarity with the course materials and main themes; this means the more you can critically and reflectively draw in class materials, the better you will score. Critical reflections do not simply summarize the text or evaluate whether or not you like the text; they are a 2-3 page persuasive and focused analysis, argument, or interpretation about the text. They not only help you think critically about the texts you read but also help you formulate ideas and develop arguments that you can use in your research essay and take-home exam. In fact, this critical reflection assignment is designed to help you build your essay writing skills.

Format: Based on the readings and using the course materials you’ve studied up till that point, you’ll write a mini-essay that offers a critical response to a pre-given question. Demonstrate your knowledge of the class materials by discussing concepts and arguments covered in the weekly readings up to that point.

All responses should be typed and printed; responses should be formulated in standard essay-style (introduction, body, conclusion, citations and bibliography); not exceed 1500 words (min. 1000, not including notes and bibliography). You can use any citation style you like, although Chicago Style is recommended. http://www.chicagomanualofstyle.org/tools_citationguide.html
2. INSTRUCTIONS FOR RESEARCH PAPER = 25%

DUE MARCH 6, 2018 BY ELECTRONIC UPLOAD NO LATER THAN 5PM.

Submission Instructions: Go to the OWL course website and click on the ‘Assignments’ link in Menubar (left side of screen). Go to the ‘Research Paper’ link to upload your electronic copy. Please SUBMIT EITHER AS A WORD OR PDF DOCUMENT ONLY (OWL DOES NOT ACCEPT PAGES OR ANY OTHER FORMAT).

Format: Typed, 12 point font, double-spaced, 1 inch margins, 6-8 pages, not including title page and bibliography.

Objectives:
- To conduct effective library and online research focusing on an individual of public note and their works and ideas
- To analyze and evaluate various feminist approaches covered by the class material to date
- To communicate and present your findings in a coherent scholarly essay format

Instructions:
- Pick a controversial person (real or fictional) or a group (e.g. an organization) of public note from the world of politics, culture or economics and provide a well-reasoned presentation and justification for whether this figure does (or does not) effectively and critically address the issue of gender (in)equality in their work.
- Refer to the major feminist ideologies covered by the course materials (e.g. liberal, Marxist, socialist, radical, postmodern, postcolonial feminisms etc.).
- Conduct research and offer a discussion of the possible significance of your subject of study for feminist politics and feminist political thinking.

Sources: Your bibliography should include
- Min. 3 scholarly books; min. 3 scholarly journal articles; min. 5 scholarly internet sources.
- Don’t forget to list all your sources in your bibliography (any citation style is fine as long as you’re consistent).

Content Suggestions (include the following in your essay):
- Explain who your object of study is (how controversial are they and why are they significant in human affairs?); include brief biography and summarize main contributions to addressing the issue of sexual and gender inequality in politics and society (e.g. body of work, including activism, written works, artworks, and events etc).
- Identify and Analyze the most important concepts or ideas and explanation of how they relate to important concepts covered in class.
• Assess, referring to the various schools of feminist thinking covered in the course materials, whether the figure you chose has made a significant contribution to feminist thought and activism (discuss and reflect lection on the diversity of feminist political thought)

3. INSTRUCTIONS FOR RESEARCH ESSAY OUTLINE 10%

DUE FEB. 27, 2018 AT THE BEGINNING OF CLASS

Guidelines for this assignment: The aim of this exercise is to encourage you to start thinking about your research essay. You are being asked to provide a written outline of your final research essay, so the objective is to give me a good sense of your final research topic.

Please include the following content: (approximately 2-3 pages)

1. Introduction to your tentative research topic; briefly discuss your approach and the rationale (i.e. why are you interested in this topic? Are you bringing an original point of view to the research literature? What are some of the controversies or debates surrounding your topic or your interpretations? What do you hope to contribute to the existing literature?) UP to 1 PAGE

2. Brief outline of essay in the form of sections and subsections (point form is fine).

3. Tentative Bibliography (which sources have you consulted?) UP to 1 PAGE
4. INSTRUCTIONS FOR TAKE-HOME EXAM = 35%

DUE APRIL 3, 2018 AT THE BEGINNING OF CLASS

Objectives: The final take-home exam has been designed to evaluate your comprehension of the course materials (textual and oral) and your skills in applying the course concepts to interpret/evaluate the politics of gender, sexual and other identity claims. In your answers, the more you can coherently and consistently draw from the course materials and make persuasive arguments using concepts and interpretations critically, the more you demonstrate that your level of mastery of the course materials. In addition to course content, your answers will also be assessed technically for effective organization and selection of information, authorial credibility (e.g. no spelling or grammatical errors), and presentation/communication of ideas.

Provide a clear, well-organized and well-communicated answer in standard essay style (including introduction, body and conclusion) and with appropriate references and citations to scholarship. You can use any citation style you like, as long as you are consistent and that you always specify page numbers. It is not necessary to engage anything other than the course materials (although you may choose to bring in other examples if you like but you will be assessed primarily on your demonstrated knowledge of the course materials).

Deadline: You will receive your take-home exam question in class on MARCH 27, 2018. Your exam is due no later than APRIL 3, 2018 TO BE HANDED IN PRINT AT THE BEGINNING OF CLASS. You must electronically submit your exam through the course website. No other method of submission will be accepted. This is not a collaborative assignment (you are not permitted to consult with anyone other than the course instructor) and Western University’s Academic Dishonesty policy will apply throughout the take-home exam period. No hard copy is required at this time.

Format: All answers should be typed, 12 point font, 1 inch margins, double spaced; each answer should be minimum 5 pages to maximum 8 pages not including notes and bibliography).

Prerequisite checking - the student’s responsibility
"Unless you have either the requisites for this course or written special permission from your Dean to enroll in it, you may be removed from this course and it will be deleted from your record. This decision may not be appealed. You will receive no adjustment to your fees in the event that you are dropped from a course for failing to have the necessary prerequisites."

If clickers are to be used in a class, it is the responsibility of the student to ensure that the device is activated and functional. Students must see their instructor if they have any concerns about whether the clicker is malfunctioning. Students must use only their own clicker. If clicker records are used to compute a portion of the course grade:
• the use of somebody else’s clicker in class constitutes a scholastic offence,

Duplication of work
Undergraduate students who submit similar assignments on closely related topics in two different courses must obtain the consent of both instructors prior to the submission of the assignment. If prior approval is not obtained, each instructor reserves the right not to accept the assignment.

Grade adjustments
In order to ensure that comparable standards are applied in political science courses, the Department may require instructors to adjust final marks to conform to Departmental guidelines.

Academic Offences

University Policy on Cheating and Academic Misconduct

Plagiarism: Students must write their essays and assignments in their own words. Whenever students take an idea, or a passage from another author, they must acknowledge their debt both by using quotation marks where appropriate and by proper referencing such as footnotes or citations. Plagiarism is a major academic offence." (see Scholastic Offence Policy in the Western Academic Calendar).

Plagiarism Checking: "All required papers may be subject to submission for textual similarity review to the commercial plagiarism detection software under license to the University for the detection of plagiarism. All papers submitted for such checking will be included as source documents in the reference database for the purpose of detecting plagiarism of papers subsequently submitted to the system. Use of the service is subject to the licensing agreement, currently between The University of Western Ontario and Turnitin.com (http://www.turnitin.com )."

Multiple-choice tests/exams: "Computer-marked multiple-choice tests and/or exams may be subject to submission for similarity review by software that will check for unusual coincidences in answer patterns that may indicate cheating."

Note: Information excerpted and quoted above are Senate regulations from the Handbook of Scholarship and Academic Policy. http://www.uwo.ca/univsec/academic_policies/index.html
PLAGIARISM*

In writing scholarly papers, you must keep firmly in mind the need to avoid plagiarism. Plagiarism is the unacknowledged borrowing of another writer's words or ideas. Different forms of writing require different types of acknowledgement. The following rules pertain to the acknowledgements necessary in academic papers.

A. In using another writer's words, you must both place the words in quotation marks and acknowledge that the words are those of another writer.

You are plagiarizing if you use a sequence of words, a sentence or a paragraph taken from other writers without acknowledging them to be theirs. Acknowledgement is indicated either by (1) mentioning the author and work from which the words are borrowed in the text of your paper; or by (2) placing a footnote number at the end of the quotation in your text, and including a correspondingly numbered footnote at the bottom of the page (or in a separate reference section at the end of your essay). This footnote should indicate author, title of the work, place and date of publication, and page number.

Method (2) given above is usually preferable for academic essays because it provides the reader with more information about your sources and leaves your text uncluttered with parenthetical and tangential references. In either case words taken from another author must be enclosed in quotation marks or set off from your text by single spacing and indentation in such a way that they cannot be mistaken for your own words. Note that you cannot avoid indicating quotation simply by changing a word or phrase in a sentence or paragraph which is not your own.

B. In adopting other writers' ideas, you must acknowledge that they are theirs.

You are plagiarizing if you adopt, summarize, or paraphrase other writers' trains of argument, ideas or sequences of ideas without acknowledging their authorship according to the method of acknowledgement given in 'A' above. Since the words are your own, they need not be enclosed in quotation marks. Be certain, however, that the words you use are entirely your own; where you must use words or phrases from your source, these should be enclosed in quotation marks, as in 'A' above.

Clearly, it is possible for you to formulate arguments or ideas independently of another writer who has expounded the same ideas, and whom you have not read. Where you got your ideas is the important consideration here. Do not be afraid to present an argument or idea without acknowledgement to another writer, if you have arrived at it entirely independently. Acknowledge it if you have derived it from a source outside your own thinking on the subject.

In short, use of acknowledgements and, when necessary, quotation marks is necessary to distinguish clearly between what is yours and what is not. Since the rules have been explained to you, if you fail to make this distinction your instructor very likely will do so for you, and they will be forced to regard your omission as intentional literary theft. Plagiarism is a serious offence which may result in a student's receiving an 'F' in a course or, in extreme cases in their suspension from the University.
