What is political power? Who has it? How is it acquired? How is its use enabled or constrained? How are political and economic power inter-related? This course takes up these foundational questions in the urban context. We will survey classic and contemporary theories of urban political economy. The first half of the course examines perspectives on the acquisition and exercise of power in the city. The second half considers the power of the city — in an increasingly borderless world, is there such a thing as an autonomous local politics, or must urban political economy be understood only in relation to broader forces? How do the institutional layering and fragmentation that characterize urban governance shape the exercise of political power?

This is an advanced, graduate-level course with a reading load (average of 150 pages / week) and expectations to match. The focus is on theoretical debates and foundational readings, rather than on applied literature (although you may choose to explore in your term paper empirical applications of theoretical approaches discussed in class). It is a required core course for all PhD students intending to write a Comprehensive Exam in local / urban politics. We will also use the terrain of urban political economy research to discuss the methodological challenges all political scientists face as they study the acquisition and use of power.

Learning Objectives:

By the end of this course, you will:

• be familiar with leading theories of urban political economy,
• have sharpened your analytic and argumentative skills through classroom discussions and assignments.

COURSE WEBSITE

This course makes use of OWL. Please refer to the course website regularly for announcements and course information: https://owl.uwo.ca/portal.

COURSE FORMAT

This is a seminar course. There will be no lecture. Students will lead and actively contribute to the discussion. Reading the assigned texts in advance is a necessary prerequisite for doing well in this course and will make for more exciting and insightful discussion.

COURSE MATERIALS

Most of the readings will be posted on OWL. You will, however, purchase one book, which is available in the bookstore or though your favorite on-line bookseller:

EVALUATION

Participation (20%): Lively, informed and thoughtful discussion is at the heart of this course. You will be evaluated on the preparation and thoughtfulness that you bring to your in-class discussion contributions.

Seminar leadership (10%): You will lead a 50-minute seminar discussion once during the term. On your chosen day, you will distribute a (maximum two-page) summary of the reading or readings you have prepared to the class. You will briefly (ten minutes max.) present some key points from the reading, and then you will motivate discussion by posing discussion questions that you have prepared, and by moderating and participating in the discussion.

Two readings summaries (10%): You will choose two readings from weeks other than your seminar week, and will prepare and submit via OWL a one-page summary of each reading.

Final paper (60%): Building on the course material, you will write an argumentative essay that critically engages with an important question in urban political economy. This may involve taking a deeper dive into the literature to compare and contrast diverse theoretical perspectives and their extensions, or it may involve applying a theory to one or more empirical cases. You will submit a short (1-2 pages) paper proposal for instructor feedback on or before October Masters students will submit a maximum 20-page paper. Doctoral students will submit a maximum 30-page paper. Papers are due on Monday, December 9.

Both your abstract and your paper will be submitted via the OWL assignment submission system. Further details on the paper assignment will be discussed early in the term.

COURSE POLICIES

Electronic devices: Research shows that levels of student performance and participation are lower when computers, tablets, smartphones, and other devices are present in the classroom. In order to create a pleasant environment conducive to everyone’s learning and free from distractions, please refrain from using phones for texting or any other purposes during classes. The use of laptops and tablets is strongly discouraged.

E-mail policy: All Western University students are required to have an @uwo.ca e-mail account. The instructor will only respond to e-mails sent from your Western University account. The instructor will not accept assignments by e-mail.

Late assignments: The penalty for late assignments is two percentage points per day (including weekend days). Extensions due to illness require a medical certificate. If you foresee problems meeting submission deadlines please consult the instructor early; accommodations can always be made with adequate advance notice.

Academic integrity: To protect and uphold academic integrity in the class, it is the responsibility of each student to be able to demonstrate the originality of his or her work if called upon to do so. At a minimum, for every assignment, the sources of all information and ideas must be properly referenced using a standard academic referencing style such as Chicago, APA, or MLA. Failure to properly reference ideas, concepts, and quotations in an assignment that are not your own will result in academic penalties as required by university policy: http://www.uwo.ca/univsec/pdf/academicpolicies/appeals/scholasticdisciplineundergrad.pdf. All upper-year students are expected to have a thorough understanding of the rules and conventions of academic writing. If you are unclear about what constitutes plagiarism or how to reference sources, please visit the Writing Support Centre http://www.sdc.uwo.ca/writing/ or review information at: http://www.lib.uwo.ca/tutorials/plagiarism/.

Communication with the instructor: Please do not hesitate to e-mail me or come to office hours if you would like to discuss course material. I will make every effort to respond to e-mails within 24 hours (weekends excepted). If you are having trouble with the course material or are falling behind in your work, please contact me as soon as possible.
Help with writing: Learning to express ideas clearly is a central goal of the university experience. If academic writing does not come easily to you, you are strongly encouraged to make use of the Writing Support Centre: http://www.sdc.uwo.ca/writing/.

Accommodations on medical grounds: Students seeking academic accommodation on medical grounds for any missed tests, exams, participation components and/or assignments must apply to the Academic Counseling office of their home Faculty and provide documentation. Academic accommodation cannot be granted by the instructor or department. Please refer to the Policy on Accommodation for Medical Illness https://studentservices.uwo.ca/secure/index.cfm and download a Student Medical Certificate (SMC): https://studentservices.uwo.ca/ under the Medical Documentation heading. Students who are in emotional/mental distress should refer to Mental Health@Western http://www.health.uwo.ca/mental_health/ for a complete list of options about how to obtain help.

Accommodations on religious grounds: Every effort has been made to avoid scheduling assignment due dates on religious holidays. Please inform the instructor at the beginning of the course if you will be unable to attend class for reason of religious observance.

READING LIST AND DISCUSSION QUESTIONS

Class 1 Introduction: Structure, Agency, and Power

Questions: Where are power and politics in Burgess’ and Wirth’s classic portrayals of the city? How do the two accounts differ in this respect? How does Imbroscio’s portrayal of structure and agency fit within Alford and Friedland’s typology of power?

Part I – Power in the City

Class 2  Power and History: The Development of Urban Politics in Canada and the United States

Questions: How and why did Canadian and American local politics, local government institutions, and intergovernmental relations historically come to differ? What role did power – and whose power? – play in the evolution of these differences?

Class 3  The Community Power Debate: Elitism vs Pluralism

Questions: What is power according to Hunter? How is it acquired and exercised? Who are the elites? How does the pluralist perspective on power differ from the elite domination perspective? How do Bachrach and Baratz critique the pluralist and elite domination perspectives?

Class 4  Structuralism I: Capitalism, Urban Development, and the Local State

Questions: What is the role of the state (and the local state in particular) in the political economy? How does the logic of capital accumulation drive policy decisions? Why do pluralist and structuralist writers make such radically different claims about the nature and use of political power in the urban setting?

Class 5  Urban Regime Analysis

Questions: What is an urban regime? How successfully does Stone resolve the structure-agency conflict in the earlier debate between structuralist/Marxist and pluralist perspectives?

Class 6  Regimes and Governance in Comparative Perspective

Questions: Does the urban regime concept belong to a particular space and time? Is the approach underlying the regime concept more generally applicable than the concept itself? How is the concept of governance different from the concept of regime?

Part II – The Power of the City

Class 7 Power and Metropolitan Governance

Questions: How does fragmented (or “polycentric”, or specialized) metropolitan governance affect the exercise of political power in the urban arena? Is the development of a fully unified or coordinated metropolitan governance a realistic goal? Why or why not?

Class 8 City Limits and National Systems

Questions: Is local power an illusion? What are the interests of the limited city, as Paul Peterson calls them? How does Savitch and Kantor’s account of local agency differ from Peterson’s? How do they build on the regime approach in their work? How is Sellers’ approach different from Savitch and Kantor’s?

Class 9 Structuralism II: Capitalist Urbanization and Neoliberalism

Questions: What is a “spatial fix,” and how is it functional to the maintenance of capital accumulation? How is Harvey’s conception similar to or different from Logan and Molotch’s?
What is neoliberalism? Do local actors and governments enjoy any meaningful autonomy under capitalist urbanization? How do the Marxist accounts you’ve read for this week differ from Savitch and Kantor’s account of local political agency in a global marketplace?

Class 10  Urban Self-Government

Questions: Why does Sancton argue that city-regions cannot be self-governing? Do you find his argument convincing? What is the locus of political power in his account?

Sancton, Andrew. 2008 The Limits of Boundaries: Why City-Regions Cannot be Self-Governing. Montreal: MQUP.

Class 11  Multilevel Governance

Questions: If urban governing power is distributed across multiple levels of government, what does this mean for its exercise? Are you convinced by Sancton’s argument that cities cannot be self-governing?

Class 12  Reflection on Methods for the Study of Urban Politics

Questions: Are case studies the only way to study urban politics? What are the limits of comparative analysis of urban politics?
