IMPORTANT NOTICE RE PREREQUISITES/ANTIREQUISITES

You are responsible for ensuring that you have successfully completed all course prerequisites, and that you have not taken an antirequisite course. Lack of prerequisites may not be used as a basis for appeal. If you are found to be ineligible for a course, you may be removed from it at any time and you will receive no adjustment to your fees. This decision cannot be appealed. If you find that you do not have the course requisites, it is in your best interest to drop the course well before the end of the add/drop period. Your prompt attention to this matter will not only help protect your academic record, but will ensure that spaces become available for students who require the course in question for graduation.

Course Description

The Canadian Charter of Rights and Freedoms has been described as the single most important innovation of the constitutional changes of 1982 and the most radical break ever made with the Canadian constitutional and legal order, which previously had been characterized by continuity and incremental development. The Charter assigns the judiciary the authority and responsibility to review legislative and executive decisions to determine whether they are consistent with the protected rights and freedoms enshrined in the Charter. However, judicial interpretations of the Charter, the respective roles of Parliament and the judiciary in the political process, and Charter litigation commenced by competing social interests are subjects that evoke considerable controversy. This course will examine these controversies.

Learning Objectives

By the end of the course, students should acquire an in-depth understanding of the operation of the Charter and its impact on and relationship to the political realm. Students should also be able to apply that knowledge to public policy issues by producing their own Charter analyses to resolve rights-based, public policy controversies and by critically evaluating Charter jurisprudence.

Required Readings

The vast majority of the readings are available electronically through the library catalogue and are most easily retrieved by searching the library database using the “Catalogue” option and then searching by ‘journal title’. Some course readings are not available via the library. These course readings are marked with an asterisk (*) and are posted in the resources section of OWL.

Abbreviated versions of the Supreme Court of Canada cases that have been designated as required readings are also available in the course web site. Students are not required to do the recommended readings. However, the instructor may refer to materials from those readings during the lecture.

The Professor will respond to email and will do her best to reply within 48 hours (excluding weekends). Please do not send email messages via OWL. Do note that university policy precludes Professors from responding to email messages that were not sent from a UWO email account. Note, also, that grades may not be discussed via email.

Web Site

There is a web site set up for this course, available at: <https://owl.uwo.ca>. The course syllabus and abbreviated case law materials will be posted on the web site as will class announcements and links to turnitin.com. Accordingly, students should check the web site regularly.

IMPORTANT POLICIES

Academic Offences

Scholastic offences are taken seriously. Students are directed to read the policy on Scholastic Offences at the following web site:

https://www.uwo.ca/univsec/pdf/academic_policies/appeals/scholastic_discipline_undergrad.pdf

Turnitin

All assignments are subject to submission for textual similarity review to the commercial plagiarism detection software under license to the University for the detection of plagiarism. All papers submitted for such checking will be included as source documents in the reference database for the purpose of detecting plagiarism of papers subsequently submitted to the system. Use of the service is subject to the licensing agreement, currently between The University of Western Ontario and Turnitin.com (<http://www.turnitin.com>).

Submission of Assignments

Written assignments must be submitted electronically to turnitin.com through the course OWL web site. Students may submit their assignments to turnitin one time only. Multiple submissions are not allowed. Students may not submit their papers to turnitin using other course web sites prior to submitting their assignments in 3332. Students who do submit 3332 assignments to turnitin using other course web sites will receive a grade of zero on the assignment.

Late Penalty for Written Assignments

Late case analyses/position papers may be handed in 1 week following the original due date with a 10% deduction. Assignments that are more than 1 week late will not be accepted for grading.

Extensions

Extensions are not given. However, when there are genuine and unavoidable family or medical circumstances, students may seek academic accommodation, as detailed below. If you fail to hand in an assignment but are pursuing academic accommodation, please advise the Professor of this fact.

Computer Problems

Students are expected to back up their written work and lecture notes. Furthermore, students will be responsible for finding replacement lecture notes where they fail to back-up their files. Extensions are not granted for computer-related problems.

Academic Accommodation

If a situation should arise where a student requires accommodation because of a medical or personal issue, the student should visit his or her faculty's Academic Counselling office so that an academic counsellor can make a recommendation for academic accommodation to the student's Professor(s).

This procedure means that you do not provide your instructor with any details of your situation. It is your responsibility to speak with a counsellor as soon as possible after an issue arises. Academic accommodation ONLY will be provided if you speak with an Academic Counsellor and provide them with documentation of your issue, and if the issue is brought to their attention in a timely fashion.

Please note that 'screen fails' pursuant to Western's COVID-19 daily questionnaire do not entitle students to accommodation. Being asked not to attend an in-person course requirement due to potential COVID-19 symptoms is not sufficient on its own. Formal accommodation must be sought.

Academic Counselling for the Faculty of Social Sciences is located at SSC 2105

Telephone: 519 661-2011

Recorded information: 519 661-2052

Support Services

Students who are in emotional/mental distress should refer to Mental Health@Western <http://www.uwo.ca/uwocom/mentalhealth/> for a complete list of options about how to obtain help.

Western is committed to reducing incidents of gender-based and sexual violence and providing compassionate support to anyone who has gone through these traumatic events. If you have experienced sexual or gender-based violence (either recently or in the past), you will find information about support services for survivors, including emergency contacts at: http://www.uwo.ca/health/student_support/survivor_support/get-help.html.

Grade Appeals

After grades are posted, students must wait 48 hours before contacting the instructor about their grade.

If you are concerned that your assignment was not graded fairly, you may ask to have your assignment reviewed. To request a review of your assignment, you must provide an appeal statement (one page maximum) explaining why you think your assignment was improperly graded (i.e. what comments that were provided to explain the grade do you take issue with?). The appeal statement, the original assignment and a clean copy of the assignment, all in hard copy form, must be submitted to the Professor no later than 3 weeks after the assignment was returned electronically or made available for return if hard copies were graded. Grades may be either raised or lowered on appeal. Where an exam is held, students should follow the same appeal procedure.

Requests for Grade Changes, Grade Bumps and Make-Up Work

Students are often concerned with meeting certain grade thresholds, especially when they are hoping to gain entry into programs after graduating. As a former student who also sought entry to these programs, I do understand the desire to perform well and meet entry requirements. However, I do not entertain requests for changing grades, bumping grades or make-up work. In my view, these requests are not fair to other students who accept their grades respectfully and who are also competing for spots in post-graduation programs. All students will receive the grade that they earned in the class once assignment marks are totalled.

Evaluation Details

Quizzes

Four multiple-choice quizzes will be held on OWL. The quizzes will test material on specified weeks and students will be given a 50 hour period in which to complete each quiz on OWL. While the length of the quizzes may vary, quizzes will not exceed 30 minutes and may be shorter. Students are required to complete their quizzes during the specified time frame listed above (page 2). Students will not be allowed to take quizzes that they missed without academic consideration. Students who log in to a make-up quiz without having academic consideration in place will be treated as having committed an academic offence.

Case Analysis

All students will complete a case analysis assignment. Written assignments must include footnotes, endnotes, or parenthetical (in-text) citation and a bibliography organized according to the Chicago style. Note that all citations must include references to specific page/paragraph numbers. Help with using the Chicago Style can be found at the following UWO library web source: <https://www.lib.uwo.ca/files/styleguides/ChicagoStyleAuthorDate.pdf>

NOTE: Students will be penalized for incorrect citation style.

Format

Each student will write a case analysis of the Supreme Court of Canada decision identified below. Papers must be typed and double-spaced, using a standard 12 point font and standard (1"/2.54 cm) margins. The case analysis has a 2500 word limit, which includes the title page, notes, and bibliography. Papers that are over the word limit will be penalized.

Content

Split decisions in the Supreme Court of Canada reveal staunch disagreements about the application of legal principles. But they can also point to disagreements about the appropriate relationship between courts and legislatures, approaches to constitutional interpretation, the limits that ought to be placed on the judicial role, and the meaning of key concepts (etc.) - things that we have discussed throughout the course.

This assignment not only asks students to summarize key aspects of a SCC judgement; it requires students to identify where and how course concepts, theories, and debates fuel the arguments of the majority and minority.

Because students will be connecting weekly readings to a Supreme Court of Canada judgement, students must cite class readings to provide scholarly explanations of, and support for, the concepts, arguments and theories that they raise. Students may NOT cite their lecture notes. The peer-reviewed scholarly sources that have been assigned to students weekly must be relied on in completing the assignment.

Students are encouraged to use headings to address the 5 case analysis components. Students do not need to incorporate a formal introduction or conclusion into their case analysis. Do note that the assignment does not ask students to offer their own personal assessments or critiques of the judgement as there is no space to do so.

The case analysis has five parts:

- 1) Identify the parties to the case, the interveners, and the Supreme Court judges who constitute the majority and the minority.
- 2) Provide a brief synopsis of the facts of the case and identify the central Charter issue before the Court. Which section(s) of the Charter does the claimant believe has been breached and why? Note that there is no need to discuss lower court rulings in setting out the facts of the case.
- 3) Provide a brief discussion of the arguments advanced by the parties concerning the central Charter issue before the Court.
- 4) Provide a detailed discussion identifying where and how disagreements about the appropriate relationship between courts and legislatures, approaches to constitutional interpretation, the limits that ought to be placed on the judicial role, and the meaning of key concepts (etc.) arise in the judgement and put the majority and minority at odds with one another. This is the most important part of the assignment and should receive the most space and attention.
- 5) Provide a brief discussion of the outcome of the case, including the majority and minority's reasons for deciding as they did.

The Case

Fraser v. Canada (Attorney General), 2020 SCC 28.

<https://scc-csc.lexum.com/scc-csc/scc-csc/en/item/18510/index.do>

This case involved a job-sharing program for RCMP officers. Employees in the job-sharing program were denied the opportunity to buy back pension credits. However, employees on unpaid leave and employees who had been suspended from duty were able to buy back pension credits. On the basis that most job sharers were women with children, the female claimants alleged that the pension consequences of the job-sharing program were discriminatory and violated their s.15(1) equality rights.

Note on Citing Court Cases

Proper legal citation is required.

Your bibliographical entry should appear as follows:
Fraser v. Canada (Attorney General), 2020 SCC 28.

Students should use paragraph numbers when referring to the decision (ie. students may not cite or quote the unnumbered head note that summarizes the decision at the start of the judgement).

For students using footnotes or endnotes, the first citation should appear as follows:
Fraser v. Canada (Attorney General), 2020 SCC 28 at para. 55.

Subsequent citations may appear as follows:
Fraser v. Canada at paras. 44-46.

APPENDIX A: APPENDIX TO UNDERGRADUATE COURSE OUTLINES DEPARTMENT OF POLITICAL SCIENCE

Prerequisite checking - the student's responsibility

"Unless you have either the requisites for this course or written special permission from your Dean to enroll in it, you may be removed from this course and it will be deleted from your record. This decision may not be appealed. You will receive no adjustment to your fees in the event that you are dropped from a course for failing to have the necessary prerequisites."

Essay course requirements

With the exception of 1000-level courses, most courses in the Department of Political Science are essay courses. Total written assignments (excluding examinations) will be at least 3,000 words in Politics 1020E, at least 5,000 words in a full course numbered 2000 or above, and at least 2,500 words in a half course numbered 2000 or above.

Use of Personal Response Systems ("Clickers")

"Personal Response Systems ("clickers") may be used in some classes. If clickers are to be used in a class, it is the responsibility of the student to ensure that the device is activated and functional. Students must see their instructor if they have any concerns about whether the clicker is malfunctioning.

Students must use only their own clicker. If clicker records are used to compute a portion of the course grade:

- the use of somebody else's clicker in class constitutes a scholastic offence,
- the possession of a clicker belonging to another student will be interpreted as an attempt to commit a scholastic offence."

Security and Confidentiality of Student Work (refer to current Western Academic Calendar

\(http://www.westerncalendar.uwo.ca/\)

"Submitting or Returning Student Assignments, Tests and Exams - All student assignments, tests and exams will be handled in a secure and confidential manner. Particularly in this respect, leaving student work unattended in public areas for pickup is not permitted."

Duplication of work

Undergraduate students who submit similar assignments on closely related topics in two different courses must obtain the consent of both instructors prior to the submission of the assignment. If prior approval is not obtained, each instructor reserves the right not to accept the assignment.

Grade adjustments

In order to ensure that comparable standards are applied in political science courses, the Department may require instructors to adjust final marks to conform to Departmental guidelines.

Academic Offences

"Scholastic offences are taken seriously and students are directed to read the appropriate policy, specifically, the definition of what constitutes a Scholastic Offence, at the following Web site:

<http://www.uwo.ca/univsec/handbook/appeals/scholoff.pdf>."

Submission of Course Requirements

ESSAYS, ASSIGNMENTS, TAKE-HOME EXAMS MUST BE SUBMITTED ACCORDING TO PROCEDURES SPECIFIED BY YOUR INSTRUCTOR (I.E., IN CLASS, DURING OFFICE HOURS, TA'S OFFICE HOURS) OR UNDER THE INSTRUCTOR'S OFFICE DOOR.

Plagiarism

"Plagiarism: Students must write their essays and assignments in their own words. Whenever students take an idea, or a passage from another author, they must acknowledge their debt both by using quotation marks where appropriate and by proper referencing such as footnotes or citations. Plagiarism is a major academic offence." (see Scholastic Offence Policy in the Western Academic Calendar).

Plagiarism Checking: "All required papers may be subject to submission for textual similarity review to the commercial plagiarism detection software under license to the University for the detection of plagiarism. All papers submitted for such checking will be included as source documents in the reference database for the purpose of detecting plagiarism of papers subsequently submitted to the system. Use of the service is subject to the licensing agreement, currently between The University of Western Ontario and Turnitin.com (<http://www.turnitin.com>)."

Multiple-choice tests/exams: "Computer-marked multiple-choice tests and/or exams may be subject to submission for similarity review by software that will check for unusual coincidences in answer patterns that may indicate cheating."

PLAGIARISM*

In writing scholarly papers, you must keep firmly in mind the need to avoid plagiarism. Plagiarism is the unacknowledged borrowing of another writer's words or ideas. Different forms of writing require different types of acknowledgement. The following rules pertain to the acknowledgements necessary in academic papers.

A. In using another writer's words, you must both place the words in quotation marks and acknowledge that the words are those of another writer.

You are plagiarizing if you use a sequence of words, a sentence or a paragraph taken from other writers without acknowledging them to be theirs. Acknowledgement is indicated either by (1) mentioning the author and work from which the words are borrowed in the text of your paper; or by (2) placing a footnote number at the end of the quotation in your text, and including a correspondingly numbered footnote at the bottom of the page (or in a separate reference section at the end of your essay). This footnote should indicate author, title of the work, place and date of publication, and page number.

Method (2) given above is usually preferable for academic essays because it provides the reader with more information about your sources and leaves your text uncluttered with parenthetical and tangential references. In either case words taken from another author must be enclosed in quotation marks or set off from your text by single spacing and indentation in such a way that they cannot be mistaken for your own words. Note that you cannot avoid indicating quotation simply by changing a word or phrase in a sentence or paragraph which is not your own.

B. In adopting other writers' ideas, you must acknowledge that they are theirs.

You are plagiarizing if you adopt, summarize, or paraphrase other writers' trains of argument, ideas or sequences of ideas without acknowledging their authorship according to the method of acknowledgement given in 'A' above. Since the words are your own, they need not be enclosed in quotation marks. Be certain, however, that the words you use are entirely your own; where you must use words or phrases from your source, these should be enclosed in quotation marks, as in 'A' above.

Clearly, it is possible for you to formulate arguments or ideas independently of another writer who has expounded the same ideas, and whom you have not read. Where you got your ideas is the important consideration here. Do not be afraid to present an argument or idea without acknowledgement to another writer, if you have arrived at it entirely independently. Acknowledge it if you have derived it from a source outside your own thinking on the subject.

In short, use of acknowledgements and, when necessary, quotation marks is necessary to distinguish clearly between what is yours and what is not. Since the rules have been explained to you, if you fail to make this distinction your instructor very likely will do so for you, and they will be forced to regard your omission as intentional literary theft. Plagiarism is a serious offence which may result in a student's receiving an 'F' in a course or, in extreme cases in their suspension from the University.

Appendix B - Procedures for Requesting Academic Consideration

Students who experience an extenuating circumstance (illness, injury, or other extenuating circumstance) sufficiently significant to temporarily render them unable to meet academic requirements may submit a request for academic consideration through the following routes:

- For medical absences, submitting a Student Medical Certificate (SMC) signed by a licensed medical or mental health practitioner in order to be eligible for Academic Consideration; or
- For non-medical absences, submitting appropriate documentation (e.g., obituary, police report, accident report, court order, etc.) to Academic Counselling in their Faculty of registration in order to be eligible for academic consideration. Students are encouraged to contact their Academic Counselling unit to clarify what documentation is appropriate.

Students seeking academic consideration:

- are advised to consider carefully the implications of postponing tests or midterm exams or delaying handing in work;
- must communicate with their instructors no later than 24 hours after the end of the period covered by an SMC, or immediately upon their return following a documented absence.

Academic consideration is not normally intended for the following circumstances:

- Students who require academic accommodation based on an ongoing physical or mental illness (recurring or chronic) or an existing disability. These students are expected to seek and arrange reasonable accommodations with Student Accessibility Services (SAS) as soon as possible in accordance with the Policy on Academic Accommodation for Students with Disability.
- Students who experience high levels of stress related to academic performance (including completing assignments, taking part in presentations, or writing tests or examinations). These students should access support through Student Health and Wellness and Learning Skills Services in order to deal with this stress in a proactive and constructive manner.

Request for Academic Consideration for a Medical Absence

Students seeking academic consideration for a medical absence not covered by existing Student Accessibility Services (SAS) accommodation, will be required to provide documentation in person to Academic Counselling in their Faculty of registration in the form of a completed, signed Student Medical Certificate (SMC).

Request for Academic Consideration for a Non-Medical Absence

Students seeking academic consideration for a non-medical absence will be required to provide appropriate documentation to Academic Counselling in their Faculty of registration.
